MSc Psychology graduate with a background in social entrepreneurship, experienced in designing and delivering wellbeing, community engagement, and social impact initiatives across Thailand, Japan, and the UK. Research interests in mental health, decentering, and rumination, alongside practical skills in behavioural research, stakeholder engagement, project management, and user-centred design. A track record of coordinating multidisciplinary teams and leading large-scale community projects, translating insights into meaningful experiences that increase participation and foster wellbeing. Passionate about applying psychology, behavioural science, and a human rights lens to build healthier, more connected communities and workplaces.

EDUCATION

MSc Psychology Conversion Sep 2024 – Dec 2025

University of Exeter, UK

- Dissertation: “The Role of Decentering in the Relationship Between Daily Mindfulness Practice and Rumination” — a cross-sectional online survey (Qualtrics/Prolific; n=283 UK adults aged 18–30) examining mindfulness, decentering and rumination using correlation and mediation analysis. Found decentering to be a key mechanism explaining the link between mindfulness and reduced rumination; research funded by the University of Exeter Psychology faculty.
- Developed skills in research design, ethics, survey development, participant recruitment, data cleaning, statistical analysis and clear communication of findings.

BA Global Studies & Social Entrepreneurship Aug 2019 – Aug 2023

School of Global Studies, Thammasat University, Thailand

- Multidisciplinary degree spanning sustainable development, urban studies and social enterprise, combined with extensive fieldwork, exchanges and community-based projects.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

UX/UI Consultant Jun 2026

South West Business Crime Centre, Exeter, UK

- Independently secured and conducted a structured UX/UI audit of Kaleidoscope, a shared profile tracking system used across a business crime reduction partnership, reviewing interaction design, information architecture and data-handling practices.
- Delivered a written report of findings and prioritised recommendations directly to the company founder, who relayed it to the development team for implementation.
- Identified a data retention gap where incarcerated individuals’ profiles were being deleted rather than archived, and proposed retaining profiles with a faded ‘inactive’ state and status badge instead, safeguarding data integrity for future casework.
